Total $26,900

The above are the subscriptions to the fund for the Norwich industrial fund, which will be used for the purchase of the American Thermos bottle company for our city.

With the half crowded so that standing room was at a premium, great interest was manifested in the meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening at the Buckingham Memorial in relation to the American Thermos bottle company, when the result that there were numerous contributions made at the meeting, making the total contribution for the fund $26,900.

There has therefore been thus far subscribed over one-third of the desired sum for the fund, and the committee was given renewed confidence that the full amount will be secured. A break was made in the size of the subscriptions and the amount being from $100 to $250.

New Members Elected.

At the opening of the meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening the following were elected as members: Ralph Royal, C. A. Campbell, Francis P. McManis, George Greenberger, George Greenberger.

Coming to the important matter for the evening, President Haviland said it is a question now whether we are willing to stand still or step up and take the initiative in the matter of the American Thermos bottle company.

To give a history of the project W. F. Hill of the committee was called upon and he told of length how the matter came to be presented to Norwich. Mr. Hill said:

This committee was appointed by no one, and is independent, and they are not to be let others know. We are capable of the work, but not until we are positive it is going through successfully. We will not let the work be done by others. We will not let the work be done by others.

When the money is subscribed the work is done. And then, from the great business men of Norwich who have selected the papers of the Norwich Industrial fund, we have a list of names of our officers. And among these men, have no fear, for they are men of business and they are back up their opinions with their cash.

The first of September, 1911, after receiving an introductory letter from E. C. Jewett, president of the N. Y. N. H. & R. R. Co., Mr. Jewett, the head of the New England Industrial fund, called on Mr. Hill and stated to him a matter that had been in my mind for a number of years and that was the possibility of acquiring the land for the plant controlled by the railroad not occupied by anyone at present, not even the railroad, and that we could build a building up to date and ready to help or rent to manufacturers. Believing that the best way for Norwich to have a building ready for the tenant to move right into it, and commence work and not show them a site and ask them to build a year until we could erect a building.

Hartford and other progressive cities are doing that way and that is why we are doing it. And that is why we are doing it. And that is why we are doing it.

As a result of that visit, Mr. Jewett came to Norwich, but could not find us a couple of hours, and only gave me a couple of hours, and only gave me a couple of hours, and only gave me a couple of hours.

What his opinion is of our city, and right here. If you will allow me, I would like to say that if any man whose home is here, has even a professional man, would be benefited in some way, but the professional man would also be benefited, and in fact everyone will receive some benefit.

James L. Crawford moved that the Board of Trade take up the matter of the fund, and that was voted as the sense of the board that was referred to the executive committee for approval. Later President Haviland stated that the committee would approve.

T. C. Murphy hoped that in ten days the fund would be secured. It is a cause where a city is looking for a concern as much as the concern for a city. The merchants will be benefited in some way, but the professional man will also be benefited, and in fact everyone will receive some benefit.

Frederick W. Cary said he had always been optimistic of the future of Norwich, but the city is making time and that either means satisfaction or that the city is dead. From the fact that the business men have subscribed $26,000 so far for this company does not look as if the merchants are satisfied. We may think $26,000 is a large sum, but the company has agreed to spend three-quarters of a million, or nearly as much as their capital. Carnegie in distributing his wealth for libraries gives a dollar for every $100 raised. This company gives $2 for every dollar raised. The advertising feature is a most satisfactory proposition. It means that they will be busy and that Norwich will get the benefit of it. If it means the bringing of such foreigners here as those who are the backbone of the city, the company, the International Silver company and the McCrum-Howell company, he hopes they will be brought. The morning will mean a big step for the city.

Many have said they could not put down $750, but it is probable that they will have to. He set forth a plan for financing the association which will erect the factory as follows: Build a building 100,000, total $75,000, or the amount to be raised by subscription. Subscriptions can be paid in installments as follows: March 1st, 1912, $2 1/2 per cent, $25,000; Sept. 1st, 1912, $2 1/2 per cent, $25,000; Sept. 1st, 1913, $2 1/2 per cent, $25,000; Sept. 1st, 1914, $2 1/2 per cent, $25,000. Payments can be made through the bank.

On and after March 1st for land $75,000 for buildings $100,000, total $25,000. For land $8,000, for
